ATTORNEYS FOR DEFENDANTS DEMAND IMMEDIATE TRIAL

Hearing of Case Involving City Ordinance Will be Held First of Next Week.

Judge John M. Lewis and Oscar B. Abel, attorneys for Ray Bernerkamp and W. T. White, whose right to solicit for photographs in the city without the payment of a license fee in conformity with a city ordinance is questioned by City Attorney Albert Kasting, are seeking an early hearing in the case and today urged Special Judge Burkart, before whom the action was filed, to set the trial for next Monday. City Attorney Kasting desires that the hearing be postponed until at least Tuesday afternoon.

Seba A. Barnes has been engaged to assist Mr. Kasting in the prosecution of the case. The result will be watched with interest for if the contention of the city attorney is not upheld the ordinance providing for a license fee from peddlers and solicitors will be void. It is understood that the city will have the burden of proving all its claims. Mr. Kasting urges that the trial be not held on Monday morning as many women will be called as witnesses and that would be an inconvenient time for them. He suggested that the trial be held Tuesday afternoon. The prosecution, it is stated, is imposed with the burden of proving that sales have been made, as alleged in the affidavit.

The attorneys will meet again this afternoon, it is stated, and will then try and agree upon a time to hold the trial.

ELECTRICAL POWER USERS URGED TO HOLD MEETING

Suggested That They Discuss Situation Before Rate Conference is Held in This City.

Users of electrical power today received a letter from Mayor Ross suggesting that they hold a meeting before the conference between the city officials and the representatives of the Interstate Public Service Company is called to discuss action, if any, they will urge when the arguments on the city's petition to the Indiana Public Service Commission are made. The conference with a member of the Commission presiding will be held here in the near future. The date has not been definitely fixed but will be determined by the board of works at the next meeting, November 23.

Mayor Ross' letter suggests that the users of electrical power meet informally to talk "over their troubles" if they have any so that they will be prepared to set them forth when the conference is held. There are quite a number of plants and shops in this city that depend entirely upon electricity for power and the users are much interested in the proposed settlement of rates. It is understood that one of the power users intends to call the meeting soon.

If person who took carpet from Simon's Store will return at once or settle for same, they will avoid trouble. n20d

NEW OFFICERS FOR COMMERCIAL CLUB

N. Kaufman Named by Directors to Head New Organization at Meeting Last Night.

PLANS FOR ACTIVE WORK

T. S. Blish Made Vice President, Harry M. Miller, Secretary, and Clark B. Davis, Treasurer.

The newly elected directors of the Commercial Club met last evening and elected officers for the coming year. N. Kaufman was named as president, T. S. Blish as vice president, Harry M. Miller, secretary, and Clark B. Davis, treasurer. A new office was created by the directors, that of assistant secretary, and Carl R. Switzer was named for the place, and will work in conjunction with the secretary.

Various plans for an active campaign of work along several different lines were discussed, and work on several of these will be taken up actively as soon as the holiday business rush is over. Mr. Kaufman, the new president, is a recognized leader, and as he is enthusiastic about the future possibilities of an active organization in Seymour, it is safe to predict that the reorganized Commercial club is to be something more than a mere name. "There is much that can be done with a united organization of our merchants and manufacturing men," said Mr. Kaufman this morning, "and we propose to take hold of these problems and solve them in a business way. The Commercial club will no doubt merge into its organization the Merchants' Association and other similar bodies, which will give us a strong and effective working organization that could and will be an important factor in matters of municipal improvement, additional industries and an extension of our trade territory."

Permanent quarters for the club is a matter that will be given attention at once. Negotiations are already on for rooms which will be an ideal home for the club, and it is probable that some definite announcement will be forthcoming soon along this line. The officers of the club would be an information headquarters for Seymour, and would be supplied with descriptive literature, statistics, etc., and would be in charge of an employee under the supervision of the secretary.

The plans of the new officers also include the appointment of several new committees, of which the various directors will serve as chairmen. These committees will be expected to meet regularly and to have active charge of all work assigned to them.

In order to accomplish these results, of course, it will be necessary to finance the organization, and to enlist in it every business man of Seymour who has the city's best interests at heart. To this end a membership and booster campaign is planned for the first of the new year, when an effort will be made to bring the present membership up to 200 or more, and then get down to active work.

The weekly luncheon idea that has been suggested has met with much

BIG GAINS SHOWN BY BANK REPORTS

General Prosperity of the Community Reflected by Statements of Local Institutions.

DEPOSITS EXCEED A MILLION

Growing Business Attests Utmost Confidence Imposed in Management of Institutions.

The prosperity of a community is reflected by its financial institutions. The statements just issued by the First National and Seymour National Banks and the Jackson County Loan & Trust Company upon the call of the treasury department at Washington show these institutions to be in splendid condition and that there is a large sum on deposit. The Trust Company is not required to issue a statement at the call of the treasury department but usually files the report when such a request is made upon the national banks.

The call for a financial report this fall came at a time when the deposits were probably lower than at any other season of the year, yet despite this a healthy gain is shown. At this season of the year the merchants are called upon to settle for their fall and winter stocks of goods as many of the bills fall due the first part of November. During the first few days of the month thousands of dollars were checked out by the local dealers as they had arranged to pay the bills when due.

According to the statements of the three financial institutions in this city the total deposits at the time the reports were filed were $1,317,792.35. Some of this money, of course, belongs to the farmers in various parts of the county who left their money with the banks after the sale of their wheat and corn crops.

The total resources of the three banks aggregate $1,887,834.80 showing the strength of the institutions. The resources have steadily grown during the last few years and bespeak the confidence of the people of this city and community in the managements of the local institutions.

The banking property in this city is reported as being worth $48,469.50. Besides this the banks hold other real estate to the value of $20,300. The first item under bank property constitutes the worth of the banking houses and fixtures.

Another important item in the report and one which shows the excellent management of the banks is the total amount of cash in the vaults and the sums due from other banks. The combined amount of these is $288,379.57. The statement shows that $102,277.77 was carried in cash in the three banks when the reports were published. The accounts with the out of the city banks, however, is available at any time and is checked against when drafts are issued to the patrons.

The three banking institutions here are important factors in the business and commercial circles of Seymour and Jackson county. With the system of business which is carried on largely by means of checks and drafts it would be impossible to conduct business without the assistance of these institutions. All the banks are under the management of capable and experienced business men and bankers, men in whom the public imposes utmost confidence.

Deformed Body of the Little Bollinger Babe Buried Today in Chicago.

By United Press.

Chicago, November 19—Baby Bollinger's twisted little body went to its last rest this afternoon. The body of the infant, whose life scientists said was not worth saving, was driven through the blizzard swept streets that carried the father and a sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Bollinger. There was no church ceremony.

The jury of experts summoned by Coroner Hoffman to decide if Dr. H. J. Haiselden acted properly in permitting the defective baby to die was to render its verdict this afternoon. The six surgeons were present at a post mortem examination of the twisted little form last night. None would express his views for publication, but it was learned on excellent authority that Dr. Haiselden will not only be exonerated for any blame, but will be recommended for not performing the operation which they all believe would have meant life of short duration to the infant.

Dr. Haiselden testified at the coroner's inquest this afternoon that fifteen physicians were called in for consultation in the case and each refused to operate.

"LET HER GO," CRIES DOOMED MURDERER

Joseph Hillstrom, Facing Death at Salt Lake, Makes Mockery of The Execution.

FIGHTS GUARDS TO THE LAST

With Broom Handle Concealed Under Coat Attacks Prison Attaches When Taken From Cell.

Bulletin.
By United Press.
Salt Lake, November 19—Governor Spry this afternoon declared war on the I. W. W. He stated he would drive them out of the state if the police could not.

By United Press

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 19—Shot through the head by four bullets while blindfolded and strapped in a chair, Joseph Hillstrom, I. W. W. poet and leader, convicted of murdering two men here for robbery in January 1914 was legally executed by the state today. His last words were a mocking cry of "Fire." "Let her go."

Hillstrom went to his death fighting in an insane fury.

In some unknown manner he had concealed a broom handle in his cell. When the door of the death cell was opened Hillstrom leaped upon the guards swung his club fiercely on their heads, severely cutting one about the scalp and face.

The guards leaped upon him and overpowered him almost in a twinkling.

Hillstrom was pronounced dead within thirteen seconds after he was shot at 7:42 a. m.

The doctors pronounced the execution "most humane" and "obviously superior to hanging." Hillstrom himself chose to be shot by a firing squad instead of dying on the scaffold. The Utah law gives a condemned man his choice.

Up to the moment he came out of the cell he had not indicated he would resist and his assault took the officials completely by surprise.

"I will die fighting"—not like a coward," he continued screaming while the guards pinioned his arms to his sides.

They urged him to be quiet and take his medicine like a man and when further resistance was useless Hillstrom settled down suddenly to an apathetic calm.

"Now I can die with a clear conscience," he said.

The march to the firing squad was then commenced. Warden Arthur Pratt and a deputy lead the line. Two physicians followed.

Hillstrom's eyes were not blindfolded until he had been taken into the prison yard. It was his wish to face the firing squad with open eyes, but a thick, heavy band of cloth was placed tightly across his eyes and around his head.

GORICAR GIVES MORE FACTS

Austrian Consul General von Nuber and German Ambassador, von Bernstorff, Involved by Charges—Prompt Investigation to Be Made.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Continued investigation of the activities of Austrian Consul General von Nuber, and his associates, will be made by the department of justice as a result of the conference in New York between A. Bruce Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigations, and Dr. Joseph Goricar, former Austrian consul.

Dr. Goricar recently charged in published statements that the Austro-Hungarian consular service in this country, under the direction of Consul von Nuber and Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, carried on propaganda for fomenting strikes in munitions plants.

A department statement announcing this also said that information had been obtained which probably would lead to further indictments for passport frauds.

The announcement follows: "Mr. Bielaski, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, returned after his visit to New York, during which he conferred with J. R. Rathorn, editor of the Providence Journal, and Dr. Goricar. While Dr. Goricar may not be able to testify directly to all matters under investigation, much information of a valuable nature was obtained concerning the activities of Austrian Consul General von Nuber and his associates, the details of which can not be disclosed at present. Prompt investigation, however, will be made. Information also was obtained which probably will lead to further indictments for passport frauds."

Formal denial of all of these allegations was made to the state department several days ago by the Austro-Hungarian embassy, and this was followed by a dispatch from Baron Burian, Austrian foreign minister, authorizing Baron Zwiedinek, charge of the embassy, to make "categorical and official denial of these inventions." No intimation was given at the department of justice as to the form its investigation now will take, nor concerning the nature of any action which may follow when all information is in hand.

END U. S. SENATORIAL BATTLE

Polls Open Saturday to Decide Tennessee Senatorship.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 19.—With campaigning practically ended, Tennessee is in the last stage of the bitterest United States senatorial battle ever waged in this state—a three-cornered affair between ex-Governor Malcolm R. Patterson, the present senator, Luke Lea, and Representative K. D. McKeller.

The polls open Saturday. It is declared that the total vote will reach at least 125,000. The indications are that Patterson will lead the ticket, although McKeller is pushing forward rapidly, because of his clean political record.

© 1914, by American Press Association.

Boston, Nov. 19.—In an address at the assembly luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, Nelson O'Shaughnessy, former charge de affaires in Mexico, referred briefly to his experience in that country. He said representatives of foreign governments held a conference there at which they decided to hold the United States responsible for damage to foreigners. This, he said, might be the cause of a misunderstanding that would lead to war at the close of the European struggles.

STOLE SEVENTEEN FORD CARS IN THREE WEEKS

Dr. Pagel Confesses to Heading Auto Gang.

Sullivan, Ind., Nov. 19.—In a signed written confession which implicated James W. Leonard of this city, a paroled convict, Dr. Charles W. Pagel, the Chicago physician who gave his address as 3444 North Irving avenue, who is charged with being the leader of a band of automobile thieves and who was arrested following the theft of an automobile from William Hamke, a Carlisle merchant, told of his part in the scheme to dispose of stolen automobiles.

Dr. Pagel admitted being the head of an organized band of auto thieves and told the officers that he had distributed "agents" in various places to steal cars and turn them over to him to sell. He admitted having engineered the stealing of seventeen Ford cars in the last three weeks, and said he had sold all of them.

Both men were taken back to the state prison at Michigan City and from which both were paroled, where both served two years. Dr. Pagel was sent up from Greensburg, Ind., and Leonard from Sullivan.

A habeas corpus suit brought against Sheriff Ed Kelley by Leonard, soon after his arrest, has been dropped. The officers are looking for a third accomplice with Leonard and Pagel who is a former convict.

It has been known for a long time that Chicago was the headquarters for the gangs of auto thieves and several persons have been arrested on the charge of being members of the gangs. When Dr. Pagel was arrested in Chicago he was caught in the act of filing the numbers off the car stolen at Carlisle. The stolen cars looked so much alike that when the engine numbers were cut off there was no sure method of identifying the machines.

U. S. POSITION IN ANCONA CASE

Americans Not Accorded Safety
In Open Boats.

DISCREDITS VIENNA REPORT

Mrs. Grief Asserts Shots Were Fired After Ship Stopped—Vigorous Representations Likely to Follow In Dispute With Austria.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Although the United States will wait for the Austrian reply to Ambassador Penfield's inquiry concerning the circumstances under which the Italian liner Ancona was sunk, it was stated officially that the placing of American citizens in small boats on the high seas was not regarded as according them "a place of safety" within the meaning of the term as used in international law.

In its correspondence with Germany over the Frye case the American government expressed the view that open boats did not constitute a place of safety. This was broadened by an official interpretation to apply to American citizens, whether, traveling on belligerent or neutral ships.

The United States has insisted throughout that the operations of submarines shall not "jeopardize the lives of American citizens," and notwithstanding the formal denial from Vienna that the Ancona was shelled after she stopped, the fact that the ship actually was torpedoed while a number of passengers still were aboard is regarded as the chief circumstance upon which representations will be made.

Officials qualified their assertions somewhat by stating that if a vessel was destroyed within a few miles of shore lifeboats would be regarded as safe, but that weather conditions and opportunity given for passengers to be transferred, even then were pertinent circumstances. From these intimations it generally was believed that the American government would develop the entire question of submarine warfare further in correspondence with Austria, and that even though, as the Austrian admiralty has declared, forty-five minutes was given for the passengers and crew of the Ancona to be transferred, this was not regarded as affording American citizens a sufficient opportunity to be saved.

The first official report alleging that the submarine continued shelling the Ancona after she had halted, reached the state department in a consular dispatch outlining an affidavit made by Dr. Cecile Grell of New York, the only known native American survivors of the tragedy.

This affidavit directly contradicts the Austro-Hungarian government's official statement that the ship was not shelled by the attacking submarine after she stopped.

COLUMBUS SQUAD READY FOR THANKSGIVING CLASH

Independent Team Organized There And Will Meet Local Eleven at Schroer's Field.

The following concerning the organization of a football team at Columbus is taken from the Columbus Herald and is of interest here as the team will clash with a local team here Thanksgiving. The game will be played under the auspices of the Wesleyan Class of the First M. E. Sunday School. Schroer's Field has been secured for the contest.

The Epworth League of this city has organized a foot ball team and efforts are being made to schedule some games, particularly with some of the other Epworth Leagues in neighboring cities. A game has already been arranged for Thanksgiving when they will play the Epworth League of the Seymour Methodist church in that city. The men have been selected here who are to play on the team and they line up as follows: Hayes, center; Mulkins, quarter back; Prewitt, left half; Bassett, right half; Lawrence, full back; Brown, right end; Haslan, left end; Corman, right tackle; Stucker, left tackle; Storey, right guard; Kettler, left guard.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson VIII. November 21 Fourth Quarter

JONAH A MISSIONARY TO NINEVEH (Foreign Missionary Lesson.) Jonah 3:1 to 4:11

GOLDEN TEXT.—Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.—Matt. 28:19, 20.

Any one who questions the truth or the reality of this story of Jonah casts discredit on the Lord Jesus Christ, for He called Jonah a prophet and said that his three days and nights in the belly of the fish were typical of His own three days and nights between His death and resurrection. He also spoke of the repentance of the people of Nineveh under the preaching of Jonah and of a future judgment (Matt. xii, 39-41; Luke xi, 32). To question the words of the Lord Jesus is to question God the Father, for He said that the Father always told Him what to say (John xii, 47-50). Jesus Christ said, "I am the Truth," and God is called "the God of Truth" (John xiv, 6; Isa. lxi, 16). Therefore let our hearts cry, "Let God be true, but every man a liar;" "For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth" (Rom. iiii, 4; II Cor. xiii, 8).

When Jonah is mentioned people always think of the fish, whereas the fish is mentioned but four times in the book, while God or Lord is mentioned forty times. We are not as right with God as we might be until we give the same relative importance to people and things that He does; therefore let us not magnify the fish, but the Lord. This is called a foreign missionary lesson, and it is certainly a good one on that topic, as we shall see. Two of the great foundation truths of the Bible are "God is love" and "The Lord is not willing that any should perish" (I John iv, 8, 16; I Pet. iii, 9). In this lesson we see a great city of at least 600,000 people (120,000 children) and much cattle, and there was great wickedness in the city (Jonah i, 2; iv, 11), but God would rather save than destroy them, and He sent Jonah to call upon them to repent that He might spare them.

That is always God's attitude to the world lying in the wicked one. He commandeth all men everywhere to repent, for He will have all men to be saved and to come unto the knowledge of the truth (Acts xvii, 30; I Tim. ii, 3, 4). But how can they know unless some one tells? So Jonah is called of God to go and tell Nineveh that, while the Lord does not wish them to perish, unless they repent judgment will come in forty days (i, 1, 2; iii, 4). At first Jonah is unwilling to go and seeks to flee from the call. Then follows the record of the voyage to Tarshish begun seemingly so favorably, but suddenly interrupted, for God sent two detectives to arrest his man and bring him back. A great wind to stop him and a great fish to bring him ashore (i, 4, 17). Arrested on the high seas and brought back, it reads like an up to date story, for our God is always up to date and away ahead. Look at the wireless and rapid transit as seen in the story of Daniel and Gabriel (Dan. ix, 3, 20, 21).

As to the present day attitude of those who profess to be the Lord's people toward the command of our Golden Text and of Mark xvi, 15; Luke xxiv, 47; John xx, 21, 23; Acts i, 8, could there be a more vivid picture than that of Jonah on this ship before the captain woke him up? The only man on the ship who knew the true God fast asleep, while the heathen sailors earnestly cried unto their gods. Those who have the Bible and in it the knowledge of the living and true God and of salvation by Jesus Christ for all who will receive Him are as indifferent to the welfare of the millions of so called heathen who are earnestly calling upon their gods as was Jonah when fast asleep on that ship. They need to hear the cry of that shipmaster: "What meanest thou, O sleeper? Arise, call upon thy God, if so be that God will think upon us that we perish not" (i, 6).

If we had aointed ears we might hear the heathens say, "Arise and tell us of thy God and of His great salvation." And we would surely hear God saying, "Whom shall I send and who will go for us?" (Isa. vi, 8). If God was seeking in this age to win the world to Himself both He and we might well be discouraged, but He is not discouraged, and He cannot fail (Isa. xlii, 4). This book of Jonah shows us his plan. Jonah was an Israelite. After his resurrection from the dead, in a figure, he went to Nineveh and preached the preaching that the Lord bade him, and a whole city repented (chapter iii). I do not know of another instance on record of a whole city turning to God. Now see the foreshadowing of His plan.

Israel has long been rebellious, but when they shall see the Lord Jesus, the risen Christ, their glorious and glorified Messiah, coming in His glory, as Saul saw Him on the way to Damascus, they will receive Him and with the zeal of Paul will speedily make Him known to all the world, and whole nations will turn to Him and be saved (Isa. xxv, 9; xxvii, 6; xxxv, 10; lli, 9, 10; lx, 1-3; Rom. xi, 12, 15). Notice in this book how God used a wind, a fish, a worm and even such a strange man as Jonah and, being first of all sure that you are redeemed by the precious blood of Jesus Christ, say to Him with all your heart, "Here am I: use me." Oh, use me, Lord, use even me, just as thou wilt, and when and where, until Thy blessed face I see; Thy rest, Thy joy, Thy glory share.

Y. M. C. A. STATE CONVENTION HELD AT HUNTINGTON

Advancement and Growth of Institution will be Given Consideration.

By United Press.

Huntington, Ind., November 19.—The 46th state convention of the Indiana Y. M. C. A. opened here today with hundreds of delegates present.

As it was stated, probably no important new issues will be taken up, the advance in membership and growth of the state institutions will probably be dwelt upon to a great extent.

A delegation of eighty-five "Boosters" from this city have been working hard to make this convention, the first for Huntington, a success and some good speakers have been secured. The Rev. A. A. Stockdale will be at the head of the list.

A business men's dinner is planned for tonight and about 300 are expected. A carload from Marion headed by Mayor James O. Batchelor have ordered plates and are no doubt planning on being heard from. R. S. Parsons, general manager of the Erie railroad, is the chief speaker for this occasion, while a number of other good talks are planned. The convention will be held in the new Y. M. C. A. building and the Central Christian church.

The "I Have It" Store

The man who keeps the "I HAVE IT" store always has his ear to the ground.

He tries to know in advance what the public is going to want.

He listens to salesmen and he watches his home newspaper.

When he sees a product advertised in his newspaper he knows people will want that.

He puts the newspaper advertised goods in his window and says to all who pass by "I HAVE IT," and come in."

And people come.

HARVARD AND YALE TO RESUME OLD STRUGGLE

Game is Not So Important But is Interesting Because of Long Bitterness.

(By George R. Holmes, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

New York, November 19.—The climax of the 1915 football season—one of the most weird the East has seen in years—will be reached tomorrow at Cambridge when Harvard and Yale resume their age-worn scramble on the gridiron.

It matters but little, apparently, that each team has been defeated this year, and is no longer in the championship running. The Yale-Harvard game is the game of any season, principally because it's the Yale-Harvard game. It is doubtful if a Cornell-Pitt game could arouse the tremendous enthusiasm that is attendant on tomorrow's struggle. Had both lost every game this season, it would still be the big game of the season, looking through Eastern eyes.

The game tomorrow can hardly be termed a battle. It will, barring miracles, be a massacre, with Percy Haughton's big Crimson eleven on the prodding end. Yale is completing the worst season in her history. Harvard has been defeated this year—the first time in three years, but the Crimson demonstrated two weeks ago that it still has a man-sized wallop in either mitt by defeating the best eleven Princeton has put out in years. Eddie Mahan is a whole team in himself—190 pounds of whirling, swirling, scratching football ability. Against the tall Harvard captain Yale has to offer eleven young men who have been licked by Colgate, by Virginia, by Brown, and by W. & J. already this season.

A tremendous crowd will see the

CAN GEN. CARRANZA CONTROL MEXICANS?

This is Question That is Asked in the World's Diplomatic Circles To-day.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., November 19.—Has Carranza the strength and purpose that Madero lacked, to enforce reforms, particularly agrarian, which Madero failed to establish? This is the question asked in world diplomatic circles today. Mexican affairs observers point to the brief peaceful reign of Madero as possibly significant.

After his election in 1910 Madero sought reform laws including the division of land among the peons. He failed. Discontent followed. Criticism became active opposition. Neopotsism is said to have weakened Madero's power. Graft again held sway.

Amidst the clamor against Madero, Gen. Victoriano Huerta, Madero's minister of war, is alleged to have conceived his overthrow. Felix Diaz, nephew of the former dictator, and Gen. Reyes were called Huerta's co-conspirators.

The storm against Madero broke February 9, 1913. The Mexico City garrison, controlled by Huerta, revolted. The capital was the battleground. Cannon raked the streets. Rioting and pillage, arson and murder, reigned.

The arrest of Madero followed February 18. Under threats of assassination he resigned next day. Under the Mexican constitution, Pedro Lascurain, Madero's minister of foreign affairs, became president—for an hour. In that hour Lascurain appointed Huerta foreign minister, then resigned. Huerta, by succession, became president.

Forty-eight hours later Madero and Suarez were dead. On the night of February 23rd they were taken from a carriage while enroute from one prison to another and shot down by soldiers. Lieut. Francisco Cardenas is said to have been commander of the firing squad. He later fled and is today reported exiled in Guatemala.

Upon Madero's death, Huerta urged all state governors to remain loyal. He also demanded U. S. recognition from President Taft. Before the latter had need to decide, his term ended.

To avenge Madero's assassination and restore constitutional government, the present Constitutionalist revolution was organized, culminating in the recent recognition of the Carranza government.

Gen. Venustiano Carranza was Madero's governor of Coahuila, a well-to-do rancher. Pancho Villa was then a bandit in the Sonora mountains. On March 26 Carranza was proclaimed "First Chief" of the Constitutionalist revolt, at a conference of revolutionists at Guadalupe, Coahuila. The famous "Plan of Guadalupe" was there born, pledging the Constitutionlists to avenge Madero's death and place a constitutional successor in the President's chair. Land and other reforms were pledged.

Numerous and wealthy relatives of Madero supported Carranza's revolt. Northern Mexico united to recruit Carranza's army. From Sonora Pancho Villa stepped out upon the stage of Mexican politics. He and his outlaws enlisted under Carranza.

Villa was appointed a general of the Division of the North. Gen. Alvaro Obregon was head of the northwestern corps. In a spectacular campaign, Villa headed captures of Juarez, Chihuahua and finally Torreón, one of the bloodiest battles. Afterward Zacatecas fell. During 1913-14 the Constitutionlists fought almost to Aguas Calientes.

Meantime President Wilson had refused Huerta recognition. In several messages to Congress, the first only eight days after his inauguration, the President declared "Huerta must go." Huerta's downfall was forecasted by the President's proclamation raising the embargo on arms in favor of the revolutionists. Huerta had been recognized by England, Spain, France, Austria, Japan and other countries.

On October 10, 1913, Huerta suspended the Mexican Congress, arrested 111, or half, of the members. There were reports that many were assassinated. With the Carranzistas pressing upon Mexico City, the "Tampeco incident" occurred April 9, 1914, when American bluejackets were arrested by Huerta's orders. Demands by Admiral Mayo for a salute to the flag in reparation, was swiftly followed by the expeditionary landing April 21 at Vera Cruz, with fighting in which 21 Americans were killed. The army commanded by Gen. Funston took possession.

President Wilson then called the A. B. C. Mexican peace conference at Niagara Falls, April 25. Huerta sent delegates. Carranza refused official participation or an armistice. No tangible results toward pacification were attained by the Congress. Capitulating to the force of this government's insistence upon his retirement, Huerta, after a farcical election as President in July, 1914, resigned July 15 and went to Paris. Carranza entered Mexico City at the head of his troops August 20, 1914.

BRITISH DENT TURK LINES

EXPLODING MINES PAVE WAY

Russians Drive Teutons Back at Olui and Are Also in Possession of Disputed Lake Swenton—Germans Try to Encircle Dwinsk.

London, Nov. 19.—Two hundred and eighty yards of Turkish trenches were captured by the British army at the Dardanelles in a sudden attack.

Official announcement was made that the Fifty-second division had successfully attacked the Turks in the Krithi-Nullah, near the tip of the peninsula. It captured 160 yards of trenches to the east of the defile and 120 yards to the west. The text of the statement follows:

"In the Dardanelles the Fifty-second division carried out a very successful attack on the Turkish trenches for which careful preparations had been in progress for a considerable time.

"No attempt at a counter attack was made until the next night when it was easily repulsed. Our casualties were less than fifty killed and wounded. More than seventy dead were seen in the captured position, and a wounded prisoner reports that more than thirty were buried by the explosion of one mine.

"Three mines were exploded successfully under the enemy's trenches in the neighborhood of the Krithia Nullah at 3 p. m., and the infantry, pushing forward immediately after, captured about 160 yards of trenches on the east side of the Nullah and 120 on its west. The captured trenches were at once consolidated, and bombing parties pushed on up to the communication trenches and erected barricades.

"Simultaneously with the assault, our artillery opened on the enemy's reserve support trenches, two 14-inch monitors and H. M. S. Edgar (cruiser) co-operating, and maintained their fire until the position was reported consolidated at about 6 p. m.

"The enemy's batteries replied heavily, but were erratically, and did little damage. The Turks in the neighboring trenches, who fired heavily, were caught by machine gun and rifle fire and bombs and suffered considerably, their fire becoming very wild.

"The units employed were portions of the Fourth and Seventh Royal Scots, the Seventh and Eighth Scottish Rifles and the Ayrshire Yeomanry all of the One Hundred and Fifty-sixth brigade."

Military reports from Petrograd indicate that the Russians are holding their own along their long battle line, reaching from Riga down into Galicia. The Germans in their efforts to hammer their way from Mitau to Riga have been driven back at Olui. The Czar's troops seem now to be in possession of the long disputed district about Lake Swenton southwest of Dwinsk for they now report finding enemy dead in the German trenches there.

The report of heavy artillery encounters about Lake Drisviaty and Bogulnskoie, southeast of Dwinsk, indicate that an effort is being made by the Teutons to circle about the Russian stronghold on the Dwinsk river.

NEW GERMAN NEWS BUREAU Will Maintain Firm Control Over All War Reports.

Berlin, Nov. 19.—A new official news bureau has been organized by the German general staff to maintain a firm control on all the war reports published in foreign newspapers. This "neutral war press headquarters" to which thirty-one recognized correspondents have been admitted, is located a few blocks from the general staff building.

The correspondents sign an agreement to present all "their copy" for censoring before dispatching it, and also agree to see that their copy is not changed, and that the headlines used over it are not misleading. They also promise not to leave Germany until the war is over, except on special permission being granted.

AWAIT DECISION OF CORONER'S INQUEST

Expected to Uphold Action of Dr. Haiselden.

Chicago, Nov. 19.—A jury of Chicago's most prominent physicians will give their verdict of the Bollinger baby defective incident and of Dr. H. J. Haiselden, who decreed that the baby should die, to the public at the close of the inquest.

There were indications that it would be favorable to Dr. Haiselden and in favor of the letting all babies pronounced extremely defective, pass out of the world. But there will be reservation, probably that some public official should be taken into the confidence of the acting physician to prevent the promiscuous killing of newborn illegitimate babies who are not defective.

Mrs. Bollinger, who, still weak and ill at the hospital, was not told of the baby's death until morning.

"You have something to tell me," she said, calmly, to head nurse, Freed. "Go ahead, I am strong enough."

"Your baby is dead," said the nurse. "I am glad," said the heartbroken mother. "Yes, I am glad it is dead."

And the mother, who had stifled her mother love, fell back on her pillow. She had made the supreme sacrifice for the child she loved.

PRUSSIAN LOSSES HEAVY

Estimated to Be Over 2,000,000 During the War.

London, Nov. 19.—The appalling extent of the German losses are revealed by a perusal of the official casualty list issued daily by the government for the information of families, although the newspapers are prohibited from reproducing it. The outstanding gaps in these lists are the enormous gaps in certain regiments and the frequency with which entire battalions are wiped out, the remarkable small proportion of officers lost, and the great number of volunteers killed. The latest lists available cover the losses for October. For Prussia, Wurttemberg, Bavaria and Saxony, there are over 200,000 names, 651 pages, 1,953 columns. It will be recalled that at the beginning of November the Prussian losses alone were estimated to be slightly over 2,000,000.

CONVICTED OF ROBBERY

Found Guilty In Federal Court of Looting Postoffice.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 19.—James Coleman, "alias Toronto Jimmie," and Thomas Harding, arrested here last March, together with J. H. Brayton, who disappeared after being released on bond, were convicted by jury verdict in the federal court on a charge of blowing the safe of the postoffice at Smithland, Ky., and taking $500 in stamps and $64 in currency. They were sentenced to three years in the Moundsville, W. Va., Federal penitentiary.

EFFICIENT NURSE FINDS ASSISTANCE

Mrs. Anna L. Bryan is Given Relief by Premier Preparation.

Louisville, Ky., November 18, 1915. Mrs. Anna L. Bryan, an efficient trained nurse, who resides at 301 Chescent Court, Crescent Hill, this city, is among the hundreds of Louisville women who have used Tanlac, the premier preparation, with the most beneficial results. Mrs. Bryan said:

"I find Tanlac very fine. I have been using it for more than a week for gastritis. I have been treated by several physicians with very poor results. At times I vomited blood, and lost weight steadily.

"I find Tanlac has given me great relief. Since I began taking the medicine I have noticed a marked improvement in my condition. I have ceased to vomit blood and have begun taking on weight. In fact, Tanlac has made me feel like a different woman, and I wash that with very excellent medicine great success."

Tanlac, the premier preparation, is of unusual benefit in cases of stomach, liver and kidney trouble, rheumatism, nervousness, unsound sleep, faulty circulation, pallid complexion, catarrhal and bronchial troubles, coughs, colds and the like. It is especially beneficial as a tonic for general debilitated persons, blood purifier and tissue builder.

Tanlac can be obtained in Seymour at H. H. Carter Drug Co.

Arabs Join British.

London, Nov. 18.—According to reports from German sources, forwarded from The Hague by the Central News, 12,000 Arabs have joined with the British army in Mesopotamia. This army is said to have approached within a few miles of Bagdad.

STATE REQUIREMENTS FOR BURYING DEAD ANIMALS

License Must be Procured by Any-one Who is Engaged in That Business.

Many inquiries are made concerning the state law relative to the disposition of dead stock. The synopsis of the law follows:

Sections one, two and three of this law provides for the manner of procuring a license permitting persons to engage in the business of disposing of the bodies of dead animals.

Section four provides that any one may bury or burn his dead stock upon his own premises, provided it is buried to a depth of at least four feet, and is covered with quicklime before burying. In case such stock is burned, it must be burned in a place so arranged that the odors will not interfere with or be obnoxious with the surrounding neighborhood.

Sections five, six, seven and eight set forth the manner of obtaining a license, and refer to the duties of the State Veterinarian.

Section nine provides that no persons shall engage in the business of disposing of the bodies of dead animals without first obtaining a license so to do.

Section ten provides for a special wagon-bed or tank in which the bodies of dead hogs and hogs suffering from disease may be hauled by licensed persons.

Section eleven provides that any person who shall obtain from any other person by purchase or otherwise, the body of any animal for the purpose of obtaining the hide, skin or grease from such dead animal, or for the purpose of disposing of the carcass of such dead animal in any way whatsoever, shall be deemed to have engaged in the business of disposing of the bodies of dead animals, and shall be subject to all the provisions and penalties of the law.

Section twelve provides a penalty of not less than $25.00 nor more than $100.00, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail for a period of not less than one day nor more than thirty days, for the violation of any of the provisions of the law.

No person other than a licensed person has the right to haul upon any public highway the body of any hog which has died from disease nor any live hog while suffering from any disease.

This entire law will be found on Page 291 of the Acts of 1913.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

ANNOUNCEMENT PARTY.

Miss Edna Kasting, 218 Bruce street, was hostess at a pretty party Thursday evening when she announced the engagement of two of her friends, Miss Mabel Kasting to Mr. August Livensparger, and Miss Elizabeth Hoffmann to Earl Hetzler, of Troy, O. After receiving the guests a short musical program was rendered and Miss Hoffmann sang "Just a Wearyin' For You" and "I Love You Truly." The guests were invited into the dining room, where the appointments were of yellow and white, with large baskets of yellow and white chrysanthemums. The chandelier over the dining table was draped with streamers in the prevailing colors at each place card at the table and the double announcement cards were neatly concealed in the roll at the end of each streamer of ribbon. The announcement was made by little Miss Marjorie Miller.

A course luncheon was served by the hostess. In the living room, the brides-elect found a basket of flower seeds of many kinds and each friend gave a rhyme as they took the seeds from the basket. Miss Kasting is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Kasting, and Miss Hoffmann is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hoffmann. The weddings will occur during the holidays.

WINDHORST-FARR.

The marriage of Miss Emma Farr to John Windhorst occurred at 7 o'clock Wednesday night at the residence of the Rev. Mr. Diemer, at Dudleytown. Miss Amelia Farr, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid, and Clarence Shrader was best man. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Windhorst went to their newly furnished home one and one-half miles southwest of Dudleytown, where they will be at home to their many friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Farr, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Windhorst, Sr., both being among the best families in Jackson county. Mr. and Mrs. Windhorst have a host of friends in their home community who extend congratulations.

When the bride and groom reached their home they were greeted by many of their relatives and friends. Later in the evening refreshments were served. An excellent program was given by the Dudleytown band.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Albert Ritter and Mrs. Hamilton Whitson, of this city.

INDIANA STUDY CLUB.

The Indiana Study Club was delightfully entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Nina Ewing. An excellent program was given which was opened by the responses to roll-call on Patriotic Landmarks in Pennsylvania and Maryland. Mrs. Laura Cox gave a most vivid picture of the coal region of Pennsylvania in her paper, "What I saw in the Coal Mining Regions." Mrs. Etta Mains presented a highly interesting review of the book, "Making of an American" by Jacob Riis. The program was concluded by a table talk on "Public Endowments", which was led by Mrs. Mayme Cox. Mrs. Cox opened the general discussion by giving an instructive and carefully prepared paper on "Public Endowments" in a general sense, which was followed by a comprehensive review of the greatest endowments of the past few years and the work of the greatest American philanthropists.

FRIDAY MAGAZINE CLUB.

Mrs. E. L. Hancock was hostess to the Friday Magazine Club this afternoon at her home on North Chestnut street.

The program followed: Responses.....A Quotation. Roman Life as Portrayed in the Days of Pompeii.....Mrs. Edith Pfaffenberger. Famous Mausoleums.....Mrs. Louise Schneck. Roman Roads.....Mrs. Emma Shields.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. C. H. Strong was pleasantly surprised Thursday evening by the members of her Sunday School class of the Nazarene church, who called at her home to help her celebrate the anniversary of her birthday. The evening was spent with music and various games. During the evening a light lunch was served. Mrs. Strong received a number of gifts.

BRIDGE PARTY.

Miss Mabel Gray was hostess at a delightful bridge party last evening at her home on West Second street. Tables were arranged for six couples and the guests enjoyed a most pleasant evening. Dainty refreshments were served.

DINNER PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wilson entertained at 12 o'clock dinner today for

MRS. BARBARA SWENGLE PASSES TO HER REWARD

Aged and Highly Respected Redding Township Woman is Claimed by Death.

Mrs. Barbara S. Swengle, one of Redding township's oldest and most highly respected women, was claimed by death this morning at 3 o'clock, after an illness of about five weeks. Mrs. Swengle, who was the mother of James W. Luckey, one of Redding township's leading farmers, was born in Estel county, Kentucky, on February 9, 1827, making her age eighty-eight years, nine months and ten days. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Nolan. When Mrs. Swengle was quite young her parents moved from Kentucky to Oxford, O., where they lived for six years. From there they went to Switzerland county and then to Decatur county, where in 1849 she was married to George W. Luckey. To this union six children were born, of whom Mr. Luckey is the sole survivor. In 1854 Mr. and Mrs. Luckey moved to Jennings county. Mr. Luckey died in 1873, and four years later, in 1877, the deceased was married to Mr. Michael Swengel, who died one year later, on November 19, 1878, just thirty-seven years to the day before his wife was called.

Besides the one son, a sister, Mrs. B. L. Stone, of LeRoy, Kansas, and two grandchildren, Charles and Alice Luckey, survive her. Mrs. Swengel was an estimable christian woman and had been a member of the Methodist church for more than seventy-years. She was known to practically everyone in the Redding-ton neighborhood, and was loved and respected by all.

The funeral services will be conducted Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Ackeret's Chapel, with the Rev. J. H. Carnes, of the First M. E. church, in charge.

JAPAN RUSHING AID TO THE ALLIES

Sacrifices Secrecy In Eagerness to Help England.

RAILWAY MEN GO TO FRANCE

Ammunition Plants Working at Top Speed, and Most of Their Product is Shipped to Russia—Financial Help is Also Being Considered by Tokyo Bankers.

The work of organizing for the increased manufacture of war supplies, especially for Russia, is proceeding in Japan. At first the military authorities were quite averse to permitting the manufacture of munitions by private factories, but they are now ready to utilize every possible means, public and private, for giving practical assistance to the allies as much as possible and as speedily as possible, says a Tokyo correspondent of the Chicago Daily News.

Therefore it is no surprise to read in the Jiji Shimpo that a contract has been made between a firm in Vladivostok and an Osaka merchant for certain war materials of the value of 17,000,000 yen (about $8,500,000), to be supplied by the end of next May.

Fearing Revealing of Secrets.

The following is quoted from the Japan Times:

"The army authorities were known to be purposing to monopolize the manufacture of arms and ammunition. For that purpose they were strongly opposed to the existence of private factories for manufacturing war materials. This opposition was chiefly based upon the necessity of keeping military secrets to themselves.

"Now, however, a great change has come over their attitude in this respect. They are now found to be encouraging private enterprise to meet the Russian demand. They have already shown themselves willing to help private undertakings with their experience in the manufacture of war materials. Military experts have been ordered to assist private concerns.

"It is really remarkable that such a change has come over the attitude of the military authorities, who are generally identified with conservatism and exclusiveness of the first order. This is considered to be one of the most striking effects of the present war, and before it is ended it is felt that Japan must be prepared to receive much more of the influence causing unexpected transformations in various forms.

"The war in Europe has already caused not a few unexpected tendencies, among which the new attitude of the military authorities is certainly the most conspicuous. The influence of the war may extend to other quarters, and Japan in her endeavor to assist Russia and her allies may ultimately reap the benefit of realizing a remarkable progress in her manufacturing capacities when the war is ended. However, this is looking only at the bright side, and it will be well for the people to be prepared for whatever emergencies may be brought up by the greatest of the wars ever fought by the nations."

Railway Workers For France.

Another way of helping the allies is pointed out by the Japan Times in these lines:

"It is reported that the railway board has recently received overtures from the French government for the supply of Japanese railway engineers and drivers because of the scarcity of railway and tramcar drivers in France, where almost all men between twenty and fifty years of age have been sent to the front. The terms proposed are said to be 180 yen ($90) a month salary and extra allowance of 60 yen a month, the period of contract being five years. The travelling expenses are to be borne by the French government. The authorities are not yet determined as to whether the overtures be accepted or not.

"The number of engineers and drivers required is not given, but as there are about 4,226 engineers and firemen in the service of the Japanese government railways at present some of the number could be sent to France. Besides these there are many reserve engineers who would be glad to accept the offer in view of the high salary offered.

"The Tokyo civic electric bureau can also supply some 1,000 drivers from its reserve force. Among the drivers in the employ of the civic electric bureau there are a number of graduates of private universities, middle schools or other institutions who can be recommended for the service proposed. A monthly salary of 180 yen, with an extra allowance of 60 yen a month, is far better treatment than given to junior high officials of the government fresh from the universities or field officers of the army or professors of the higher schools."

It has also been suggested that Japan may assist the allies financially. She has 400,000,000 yen (nearly $200,000,000) of gold in London and would place that at the disposal of Great Britain on satisfactory terms.

NEW RULING ON PATENTS

United States Can Use Devices Regardless of Infringement.

New York, Nov. 19.—Judge Hough of the United States district court, refused in a patent infringement suit to delay the completion of the battleships New York and California, and the other war vessels under construction by enjoining Emil J. Simon, a radio-engineer from equipping the new ships with wireless apparatus.

The injunction was asked for by the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, which declared that Simon was infringing on one of the patents in carrying out his contract with the navy department. Judge Hough rules that even if this contention were so, the government, in times of need, has a right to make the temporary use of any device on which it has granted a patent with or without the owner's consent.

AUTO BANDITS PLEAD GUILTY

Clemency Refused by Judge, Who Sentences Men to Prison.

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 19.—Refusing them the clemency they expected when they threw themselves on the mercy of the court and pleaded guilty, Judge W. C. McMahon of the Lake county circuit court, gave three of the Chicago auto bandits the maximum penalty, eight years in state prison.

He sentenced the two girls to eight years then suspended the sentence and turned them over to Mrs. Irene Emanuel, a Chicago probation officer. Joseph Dunn and John Moran were found not guilty. The bandits on Oct. 27 stole a machine in Illinois, fired on an Indiana posse, stole another auto here and terrorized farmers for ten hours.

ITALIAN CABINET MEETS

Plan Vigorous Action, Following Allied Negotiations With Greece.

Rome, Nov. 19.—The Italian cabinet war council was again convoked. Its session will probably be resumed. Very important developments are expected. Announcement of their nature, however, is apt to be delayed until the Italian military leaders learn the result of the negotiations of the allies with Greece.

The censorship makes it impossible to state what the new developments will be, but it will be asserted that prompt and vigorous action will be taken here upon whatever decision is come to.

Your correspondent is informed that Italy will certainly soon proclaim a state of war with Germany.

U. S. ARMY AERIAL FLIGHT

Squadron Leaves Fort Sill For San Antonio by Air Route.

Fort Sill, Okla., Nov. 18.—The first aero squadron of the United States army left here today, flying for its new station at San Antonio, Texas. Six aeroplanes made the flight, the first of its kind in this country.

The aerial journey will be made under conditions as nearly as possible like those encountered in war time. The distance to be covered is four hundred and fifty miles.

The flight is intended to give a line of just how army aviators may be expected to work during the war.

To each aeroplane will be assigned one truck, as tender, carrying the crew, tools, spare parts and other supplies. A newly developed machine-gun ship, carrying a lathe and forge will go along to maintain the squadron in the air.

Norwegian Ship Sunk.

London, Nov. 19.—Reports have reached here that the Norwegian steamship Ulrigen struck a mine and was sunk near Gallipoli light. A dispatch from Amsterdam declares that five of the crew were lost.

WILL NOT OPPOSE KITCHIN

Administration Will Not Object to Him as Majority Leader.

Washington, Nov. 18.—White House officials took occasion to deny the published report that President Wilson will instigate a fight against the selection of Representative Kitchin of North Carolina, as majority leader of the house, because of his opposition to the administration defense policy.

It was stated that the president concedes Mr. Kitchin's right to follow his own conscientious convictions, and that his attitude of friendliness toward the North Carolina congressman has not been impaired by the national defense fight. Gratification was expressed, however, that Mr. Kitchin has predicted the success of the administration program despite his opposition.

DETAINS GREEK VESSELS

Great Britain Must Know Position of Greece in Balkans.

London, Nov. 18.—The government has ordered the temporary detention of all Greek vessels in English ports, as a hint to Greece concerning what will happen unless she meets the allies' Balkan terms.

Six Greek ships in British waters have been warned not to sail until the status of Greece is determined, according to reports from Liverpool.

Reports that Greek ships and their 1,500 Greek sailors had been seized were officially denied.

CHIEF OF POLICE RESIGNS

Quits His Office Following Request of Church Members.

Noblesville, Ind., Nov. 18.—Chief of Police Russ Eador resigned and Patrolman G. H. Lowther was removed by a vote of the city council. Charges will be preferred against Patrolman James Fenton. It is announced.

The resignation of Eador is the result of insistent demands voiced in mass meetings held by local church members who have charged that the liquor laws are not being enforced.

New patrolmen and a new police chief will be named from a list to be submitted by the Law Enforcement league.

BIG RUSH TO GOLD STRIKE

Richest Pay Dirt Ever Found in Black Hills, Is Report.

Rapid City, S. D., Nov. 18.—All along Rapid Creek, from Pactola west to Mystic there is hustle on the part of prospectors and claim owners, owing to the discovery of rich placer digging at Terry Lodge. Rich pay dirt was struck in a short tunnel sunk to make a test of black dirt. Half a pan washed out $1 in gold. Five pans netted $7.55.

Old miners declare this is the richest strike ever made in the Black hills since the early days of '76, when some prodigious pockets were found on French creek.

ITALY MAY REQUISITION SHIPS

Prepares to Take Over Foreign Vessels in Its Ports.

Rome, Nov. 18.—Your correspondent is informed that military and naval officials of the highest rank, including the commanders-in-chief, have recently been summoned to confer with the ministers in connection with imminent developments in the war which probably be decided upon at the cabinet council.

Meanwhile a decree has been issued empowering the government to requisition foreign ships in Italian ports and territorial waters without compensation to the owners.

Neutrally the decree affects both German and Greek ships, hence it obviously is most significant as a prelude to the measure inevitably to be adopted if the attitude of Greece remains uncertain.

Judge Writes Own Obituary.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18.—Judge Donovan, one of Detroit's best known jurists, wrote his own obituary for the newspapers. He now is on the road to recovery and, like Mark Twain, says the reports of his death were exaggerated.

Mangles Arm In Shredder.

Milton, Ind., Nov. 19.—The arm of Harry Weaver, a farmer, living near Bentonville, was mangled badly in a corn shredder. Physicians are hopeful that amputation will not be necessary.

Noted Musician Dead.

Berlin (via London), Nov. 18.—Theodor Leschetizky, the famous teacher of the pianoforte, died in Dresden at the age of eighty-five years.

X-RAY USED IN CANCER CASES

Scientist Explains Working of Treatment on Cancer Growths.

New York, Nov. 17.—The beneficial effect of the X-Ray in cancer cases is apparently not due to the effect of the X-Ray on the growth itself, but to its action in intensely stimulating the reproduction of lymphocytes, a variety of white corpuscles, in the body.

Prompt surgery, followed by X-Ray treatment holds out a promise of eradicating the cancer. These were the inevitable implications in a striking paper read before the National Academy of Science by Dr. James E. Murphy, of the Rockefeller Institute staff.

TO HELP FRENCH SOLDIERS

Americans in Paris Organize to Relieve the Needy.

Paris, Nov. 18.—Ambassador Sharp presided at an influential meeting of the American colony held in the chamber of commerce. It decided upon the form the American branch of the Union of Foreign colonies is to take. This union is under the patronage of President Poincare and is organizing means to educate mutilated soldiers, who cannot earn a living. The president of the union said the cost of educating the average soldier was $100.

Professor Mark Baldwin eloquently pleaded that the object of this assistance on the part of the United States was not to pay a debt to France, but because France is fighting for ideals for which the United States has always stood.

FEDERALS INVADE NEW YORK

League Will Announce Their Plans Next Week.

New York, Nov. 18.—Detailed plans for the immediate invasion of Manhattan by the Federal league will be announced early next week, according to the word of President James E. Gilmore.

"The New York Americans will be shocked when they learn our site," continued the chieftain of the independents. "Our new grounds will be most accessible. Transportation facilities could not be equalled anywhere else for a subway station will be right at our front door."

"Before the middle of next week we will be ready to furnish the public, not only with the location of the new park, but with plans and specifications of what will be one of the most elaborate and capacious baseball plants in this country."

Sentence Wife Slayer.

Hillsboro, Ill., Nov. 18.—Jim Comer, who killed his wife several weeks ago and then buried her body, pleaded guilty in the circuit court here before Judge Jett and was sentenced to hang Dec. 17. If Comer is executed, it will be the first hanging in Montgomery county.

J. V. Hadley Dead.

Danville, Ind., Nov. 18.—John V. Hadley, former member of the Indiana supreme court and civil war veteran, died at his home here. He had suffered from nephritis and an infection of the throat for many weeks.

CHAPTER V.

Peale Makes Progress.

RODNEY left the club and went home. He skipped upstairs to his room two steps at a time and began flinging things out of drawers and chiffoniers. What trunk should he take—that new one he had made in Paris last summer "before the war"? No, he could send for that later, and besides, he didn't want to stay away from Mary any longer than he could help. He wouldn't take all his things just now; he would leave a good many behind, so that his father would be sorry if he ever came into his room again after his baby boy was gone. He would not take a trunk at all now—just his kit bag. Where was that kit bag? Johnson would know.

He started to ring for Johnson and then checked himself. He would not say anything to the servants yet. He didn't want them to be a party to this painful scene. He would leave them misinformed and keep his father guessing a little while. He would go and get that kit bag himself. It was in the garret most likely.

He had sneaked up the narrow garret staircase, the boards creaking now and then beneath his tread, just as they used to do when he was a child. Under the eaves he spied his kit bag, covered with dust. He dragged it at, and a pile of magazines and odds and ends of books fell forward across his arms. One of them was a battered cash book, or old diary, bound with a black and white back, and with many recipes written in a refined feminine hand on its blank pages.

Rodney remembered this well. It was a real heirloom from the Earles, his mother's people, who had prided themselves on "setting a good table." Rodney sat down on his dusty kit bag and turned over the yellowing pages idly. Some of the recipes were in an even older hand than his mother's—his grandmother's or his maiden aunts' probably—and now and then, in his mother's hand again, there would be a comment written in the margin, "Very choice" or "Extra good" or "Well worth trying." The recipes for these tasty old dishes looked good. Rodney decided to tuck the book in with his own things, a venial theft, and put it by some day for himself and Mary.

Dear Mary!

And she had let him hug her—the first taste of the bliss to come. How sweet and wonderful she was!

When he woke in the morning he rubbed his eyes a moment in bewilderment at his unaccustomed surroundings. And immediately the memory of Mary Grayson swept over him again, fresh and undimmed. He would call up Mary on the telephone before she got away to the office. And, by the way, he had an idea to tell her too. He was going to make soap, like his father. The old cook book had given him the idea. He left his coffee scarcely tasted and flew to a booth at the club.

"Well, Mary," he shouted through the receiver, which smelt of cigarettes, "did you know I'd lost my job?"

"Yes," said Mary's voice at a distance. "I suppose I shall lose mine, too, if I don't give you up."

"We should be friends in need, then," bawled Rodney at his end.

"Oh, Rodney, I'm so sorry," said Mary.

"Nonsense, you've made my future. Without you I'd never have got the idea—the big idea."

"Idea for what?"

"The idea to make money out of—that's all you need—and, just think, I found it in an old book!"

"What idea—what book?"

"It's a cook book."

"What on earth?"

"Well, you see, when I was packing I stumbled across an old family cook book. It fell open at a certain page—fate was on the job—it was a hunch!"

"But what is it?"

"It's an old family recipe for making cheap soap. It says it's the cheapest soap in the world, cheaper even than the manufacturers make it. I'm going into the soap business."

"What?"

"Sure—father did—look at the money he made. Why shouldn't I?"

"You're joking."

"I'm in dead earnest. I'm going to buck the trust. You see, I'll have all the popular sympathy—independent young son of soap king fights father—don't buy from the trust."

"But is that very nice to your father?"

"Has he been very nice to me? It's great! Down with monopoly! Hurrah for the people! I've heard political speeches like that! Hurrah for the people's soap! That isn't a bad name either—the people's soap!"

"But you haven't any capital."

"I never thought of that."

"You'd need a lot of money too."

"Well," Rodney said, "well, I'll just have to get it, that's all, and you'll be my secretary."

"Rodney, you must stop talking or you'll go stony broke with this long call!" yelled Mary.

"Well, when can I see you again?" Rodney persisted.

"I shall be at the office till 3," said Mary.

"I'll drop in. Father may be home with the gout," Rodney answered.

Rodney hung up the receiver and turned away reluctantly. Mary's voice wasn't it the most wonderful voice in the world? He took out a cigarette and lit it, finding a quiet seat near the Forty-fourth street window to sit down and think things over.

He armed himself with a newspaper, so that he could occasionally hold it up and ward off unwelcome chatters who might disturb his train of thought. The armament was not modern enough, however, to repel the attack of the alert young man who presently came and peered over the top of his paper.

"Well, Ambrose Peale," said Rodney, looking up.

"That's me absolutely," said Mr. Peale. "The same at your service. So you remember me, eh?"

The sight of Peale's keen and eager face took Rodney back two years at a jump. The two boys had met one night in the lobby of a Boston theater.

"Well, Mary, did you know I'd lost my job?"

"Yes," said Mary's voice at a distance. "I suppose I shall lose mine, too, if I don't give you up."

"We should be friends in need, then," bawled Rodney at his end.

"It's a cook book."

"What on earth?"

"Well, you see, when I was packing I stumbled across an old family cook book. It fell open at a certain page—fate was on the job—it was a hunch!"

"But what is it?"

"It's an old family recipe for making cheap soap. It says it's the cheapest soap in the world, cheaper even than the manufacturers make it. I'm going into the soap business."

"What?"

"Sure—father did—look at the money he made. Why shouldn't I?"

"You're joking."

"I'm in dead earnest. I'm going to buck the trust. You see, I'll have all the popular sympathy—independent young son of soap king fights father—don't buy from the trust."

"But is that very nice to your father?"

"Has he been very nice to me? It's great! Down with monopoly! Hurrah for the people! I've heard political speeches like that! Hurrah for the people's soap! That isn't a bad name either—the people's soap!"

"But you haven't any capital."

"I never thought of that."

"You'd need a lot of money too."

"Well," Rodney said, "well, I'll just have to get it, that's all, and you'll be my secretary."

"Rodney, you must stop talking or you'll go stony broke with this long call!" yelled Mary.

"Well, when can I see you again?" Rodney persisted.

"I shall be at the office till 3," said Mary.

"I'll drop in. Father may be home with the gout," Rodney answered.

Rodney hung up the receiver and turned away reluctantly. Mary's voice wasn't it the most wonderful voice in the world? He took out a cigarette and lit it, finding a quiet seat near the Forty-fourth street window to sit down and think things over.

He armed himself with a newspaper, so that he could occasionally hold it up and ward off unwelcome chatters who might disturb his train of thought. The armament was not modern enough, however, to repel the attack of the alert young man who presently came and peered over the top of his paper.

"Well, Ambrose Peale," said Rodney, looking up.

"That's me absolutely," said Mr. Peale. "The same at your service. So you remember me, eh?"

The sight of Peale's keen and eager face took Rodney back two years at a jump. The two boys had met one night in the lobby of a Boston theater.

"Well, Mary, did you know I'd lost my job?"

"Yes," said Mary's voice at a distance. "I suppose I shall lose mine, too, if I don't give you up."

"We should be friends in need, then," bawled Rodney at his end.

"Oh, Rodney, I'm so sorry," said Mary.

"Nonsense, you've made my future. Without you I'd never have got the idea—the big idea."

"Idea for what?"

"What idea—what book?"

"It's a cook book."

"What on earth?"

"Well, you see, when I was packing I stumbled across an old family cook book. It fell open at a certain page—fate was on the job—it was a hunch!"

"But what is it?"

WHAT $10 DID FOR THIS WOMAN

The Price She Paid for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Which Brought Good Health.

Danville, Va.—"I have only spent ten dollars on your medicine and I feel so much better than I did when the doctor was treating me. I don't suffer any bearing down pains at all now and I sleep well. I cannot say enough for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as they have done so much for me. I am enjoying good health now and owe it all to your remedies. I take pleasure in telling my friends and neighbors about them."

Mrs. MATTIE HALEY, 501 Colquhoun Street, Danville, Va.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

CHRISTMAS TREE COMMITTEE MEETS

Decided to Establish Headquarters in Business District to Receive Supplies.

EVERY CHILD TO GET "TREAT"

Effort Made to Spread Christmas
Cheer by Attractive Decorations About Tree.

The first meeting of the Municipal Christmas Tree committee since its organization was held Thursday afternoon and the various plans and suggestions were discussed at length. The committee has found that there is great interest in the coming celebration in all parts of the city and already many persons who want the good cheer of the Christmas season to be felt in every home in Seymour and Jackson county have proffered their assistance and co-operation.

Speaking of the plans a member of the committee today said: "While Municipal Christmas Trees are seldom seen in cities the size of ours, the committee wants to retain Seymour's reputation for doing things, so you will be safe in looking forward to the coming event. In fact, the big tree in Madison Square won't have anything on ours. Already several big trees have been suggested and are being considered."

The committee believes that the celebration would not be complete without appropriate decorations and the usual Christmas "treat" but these cannot be arranged as desired without funds. It has been found, after closer attention was given to the arrangements, that a larger amount of money will be needed if the original plans are carried out. The committee discussed various methods of getting the decorations, but found that it would be necessary to purchase most of them. However, it is pointed out that the decorations would then become the property of the Merchants' Association and could be used for fall festivals or other celebrations which will be given in the future.

Arrangements will be made in a short time for the candy and fruit that will be distributed. The children of the city are looking forward to the exercises with great pleasure and are keeping in touch with every step that is taken. The musical program that will be given on one night during the holiday week will be arranged in the near future.

Headquarters are to be established in the business district by the committee in charge of the celebration and the work will be directed from that place. The supplies can be taken to the headquarters and the plans for the decorations and other details will be worked out from there. The committee urges the co-operation of every citizen in Seymour that the Municipal Tree may be a success. The idea, it is explained, is to carry Christmas cheer into every home in the city. Every child, rich and poor alike, will share in the treat which will be distributed from the mammoth tree.

Anyone desiring to contribute may call on any member of the committee or leave the contribution here.

GOVERNMENT TO DELAY CONSPIRACY CASES

Administration Desires Criminal Prosecution of Alleged Offenders.

By United Press.
Washington, November 19.—The state department is delaying diplomatic action against Consul Vonuber and other Teutonic agents involved in bomb, passport and other conspiracies charges because criminal prosecution of the guilty parties is preferred by the administration. This was stated on excellent authority today. The government has long had sufficient evidence warranting the recall of Vonuber and other Austrian officials.

favor, and it is likely that either a weekly or monthly luncheon will be arranged as a means of getting the members together in an informal social way.

Owing to the fact that the holiday season is so near at hand the directors and officers decided not to undertake the membership campaign and organization details until after the Christmas season, but after the holidays the proposition will be taken up in earnest.

STATE LIBRARIAN BROWN ADDRESSES HIGH SCHOOL

Students Interested in Lecture Concerning Characteristics of European Peoples.

The students of the Shields high school were fortunate in hearing a splendid address today by Demarehus C. Brown, of Indianapolis, state librarian. Mr. Brown spent the entire morning at the high school, having come for the purpose of addressing the students. The faculty and students appreciated his visit and were delighted with his address.

Mr. Brown gave a very entertaining and instructive lecture to the Senior high school on "Personal Characteristics of the Different National Groups Engaged in the European War." He has lived in each of the countries which is now engaged in the gigantic conflict and made a personal study of the characteristics of the various peoples. He did not discuss the war itself, dwelling entirely upon the people engaged in it. Later in the morning he also addressed the Junior high school.

Baptist Primary.

Parents of members of the Baptist primary department are requested to send some article of food with their children to Sunday School next Sunday morning. The primary department is planning to fill a bushel basket with food that will be distributed in time for Thanksgiving dinner, to help others have a happier day next Thursday. n20d

Fred Martin, Bedford Druggist, Nursing Injury Foot as Result of Imaginary Fight.

Bedford, Ind., November 19.—As a result of a hard kick at an imaginary foe while sleeping in his room, Fred Martin, pharmacist at the Fountain drug store, injured his right foot. Martin was dreaming that he was in the midst of a fierce fistie encounter and his foe was getting the best of him, when he saw a chance to get in a telling blow with one of his feet. He was awakened when his foot came in contact with the wall of the room.

Quitther Knockin

If you're used to giving knocks,
Change your style;
Throw bouquets instead of rocks,
For awhile.

Let the other fellow roast,
Shun him as you would a ghost,
Meet his hammer with a boost,
And a smile.

When a stranger from afar
Comes along,
Tell him who and what you are.
Make it strong.

Needn't flatter, never bluff,
Tell the Truth, for that's enough;
Join the Boosters—that's the stuff.
Perpetual knocking will wear the edge off of anyone's knuckles and shrivel all the bright spots in their make up.

All in Favor Say Aye.

"If I had lived two hundreds years ago I would have been hung."—W. J.
Bryan.

Mr. Chairman, we move that the hands of the clock be turned back two hundred years.—Houston Post.
Second the motion.—Cincinnati
Enquirer.

"Widow will go 9000 miles to be married," says a headline. And some probably farther than that.

Brand Whitlock may need a complete rest, but he doesn't figure it will take him four years to get rested up, so isn't particular about being Vice President.

And anyway, what would we do without Little Tommy Marshall's periodical epigrammatic outbursts?

Winston Churchill also is evidently of the opinion that ridicule is worse than bullets.

Straw Votes.

Straw votes are what show how the election is not going. They are supposed to show which way the wind is blowing, and in this respect are about as dependable as the government weather forecasts. In a straw vote election you can pick your own voters, which is always quite a convenience. The polls are usually located in street cars, grocery stores, work shops, office buildings or on street corners, and you are the poll book holder, clerk, judge, inspector, sheriff, ward heeler and official canvasser. The result may be whatever you wanted it to be, and is supposed to act as a stimulus to your candidate and a nightmare to the opposition candidate. Straw votes are useful in that they give campaign managers who are drawing good salaries something to spend their time on. The public generally regards them as chaff.

Queer, Isn't It?

The "breaks" of a game often bring home the victory, but "fumbles" will invariably lose it.

Not Unexpected.

The father of a beautiful young girl sat in the den of his home one evening when there came a meek knock on the door and a Percy-like apparition entered the room.
"Well," demanded the fond father, after gazing for a minute or two at the apparition, who couldn't find his voice, "what can I do for you?"

"I—I—I," dismally stammered the youth, "I came to tell you, Mr. Jones, that your daughter has promised to marry me."

"I am not surprised to hear it," was the rejoinder of the fond parent. "She told me that she would get square with me when I refused to buy her a Pekinese pup!"—St.

Louis Globe Democrat.
